

CEO Circle

a peer support service for nonprofit
CEOs and senior managers

Alone at the top?

Managing or leading a nonprofit organisation can be challenging as well as rewarding - there's revenue to raise, staff and volunteers to manage, programs to oversee, acquittals to write, boards to report to and clients to help... and often no one to talk to about your most pressing concerns.

CEO Circle gives CEOs and senior managers a chance to debrief from the daily pressures of nonprofit management in a collegial, confidential and professional environment.

Join the Circle and meet with a group of your peers for an hour every couple of months to exchange ideas, and discuss issues and challenges on a supportive and collaborative basis.

There's no cost involved, just come along and be willing to share. The final meeting for this year will take place this month, with further dates planned for 2011.

Please note: if you have sensitive issues to discuss, individual professional development sessions are recommended. These are available on a fee-for-service basis.

About the facilitator

Victoria Lister, founder of Nonprofit Assist, has worked with nonprofit and small-to-medium enterprises for more than 24 years. She has undertaken a variety of leadership roles, and has provided supervision and support to CEOs and managers. Victoria has a Master of Business in Nonprofit Studies and works with organisations to provide assistance with strategic, governance and management issues.

Nonprofit Assist helps organisations by supporting the people who lead them. It provides peer support, governance education and strategic planning services.
